Decoration Day at Hays.

As usual Decoration Day was fittingly observed by the citizens of Hays. At an early hour the patriotic citizens began to gather at the G. A. R. Hall—each one bearing a bouquet or box of flowers, and at about 10 o'clock the procession formed, headed by the Fort Hays Normal band. Next in order came the old soldiers, sons of veterans, boy scouts, and the citizens in automobiles and carriages who marched to the cemetery North of town and decorated the graves of our fallen heroes and other loved ones who have passed to the unknown shores.

In the afternoon the people again assembled at the Hall to listen to the speaking and singing of patriotic songs. Judge Dallas Grover of Salina, was the orator of the day. In his remarks he had occasion to touch upon the present awful war now raging in Europe. He said in part: "When the present slaughter of humans is over, can any man tell what caused the war or what it settled."

"The memory of the great, grand and noble deeds do not fade and the Civil war soldiers had such supreme contempt for death, a contempt that has never been equalled. It was a people's war, not planned and schemed years in advance."

The whole city participated in remembering the day, the business men by closing their places of business from 10 o'clock in the forenoon to 4 o'clock in the afternoon, and in decorating with flags and bunting. Many private residents decorated their homes and a general spirit of patriotism and good will prevailed throughout the city.

Of Interest to Farmers.

As usual, we are the first in the field to pay hail losses to our farmers this season. The fields of Mr. Jake Miller and Mr. James Ross near Hyacinth, were struck by hail on Saturday, May 20th. On Wednesday, May 24th, we settled these losses to the entire satisfaction of both parties. Can you beat this for prompt settlement? If you have not insured yet, come in and do so before it is too late. Remember we do not want you to death, but nevertheless appreciate your business. We will write your hail business at cash rates, without interest. You can always find us at our office.

John O'Laughlin is building a new garage fronting on West Second Street. Red pressed brick will be used for the front and the balance of the structure will be of cement. This building when completed will be a handsome addition to the city and will be the home of the Ford car, the most dependable, all purpose automobile on the market today. You will have to give it to the tin Lizzie—you can't beat it.

For County Commissioner.

I hereby announce myself as candidate for the office County commissioner for the Second District of Ellis county, subject to the decision of the voters of the republican party at the August Primary.

The Rev. E. O. Rogers of the Baptist church gave the Baccalaureate address before the graduating class of the Hays High School at the Lutheran church. The High School Chorus under direction of Miss Sidenius, led the singing. The subject and theme of Rev. Rogers' sermon was "Vision." He emphasized the need of young people looking forward to the broader and higher ideas and ideals of life.

Mrs. Hale will have summer classes as usual in Elocution and Dramatic Expression. We are glad to make this announcement knowing what her teaching has done for hundreds of our young people. Her work has not been confined to Normal students alone, but to the children in every school grade. Several nearby towns are also to be represented in her classes this summer, and a number of Hays matrons, who missed the opportunity to take this work before, are preparing to take it now.

Joe Addison, the young son of Mr. and Mrs. Hiram Addison, came near being seriously injured Wednesday afternoon by colliding with a motorcycle driven by a young man by the name of Leighton, a student at the Fort Hays Normal school. Young Addison was riding a bicycle when the accident occurred. However, having a few bruises and scratches on his right arm and leg, he was uninjured. It was a lucky accident and no blame is laid to Leighton, as it was as much the fault of Joe as it was his.

Otto Schwallier, former manager of the Hays Mill, but now in charge of a large mill at Clay Center, has been here the past few days and was present at the death and burial of his mother, Mrs. C. Schwallier, who died Wednesday, and was buried Thursday. Otto has many friends in Hays, outside of his relatives who would like to see him become a resident of Hays again. Hard-headed business men and hustlers like Schwallier are needed in western Kansas towns, especially in a growing "coming-to-the-front" city like Hays.

HOW TO DRESS FOR OSTEOPATHIC TREATMENT.

Many erroneous ideas are abroad as to the way ladies prepare for osteopathic treatment. This explanation will seem very unnecessary to the old patrons of osteopathy but is of interest to those who have had no experience.

For those who come to the office, let us say that only the outer clothing and tight bands, where they interfere with manipulation, also the straight pins are removed because they penetrate fingers very readily. They are replaced by safety pins. A wrapper or kimono replaces the outer garments and the patient is ready for treatment.

The many careless methods described by many, and attributed to osteopathy, will be found on investigation to be practiced only by the imitators of osteopathy (they are numerous,) and not by graduates of reputable colleges.

Very sick patients, confined to the bed, usually need not make any change. Except in extreme cases it is unnecessary to treat even those cases on the skin. Of course the neck is treated bare.

In some cases of high fever, such as pneumonia, diphtheria and similar grave and serious fevers better results are often gotten if a very gentle, soothing and cooling temperature reducing treatment is given directly on the skin, but, with these exceptions, treatment is rarely so given.

This should clear up the doubts raised in the minds of many by second hand knowledge offered by folks who are guessing or who have visited some of the various fakers who claim to be practicing osteopathy.

Hessian Fly Field Meetings.

Much of the damage done to the wheat in Ellis county, has been due to the Hessian fly. So far as we can learn this is a new pest in Ellis county and many of the farmers are unfamiliar with its life history and control. In order that the whole matter may be explained to the farmers of the county and for the purpose of getting a united effort toward the control of the pest for another year, we have arranged a series of meetings. In this work we will have the assistance of a state entomologist, Mr. T. H. Parks, and members of the Hays Station staff.

We hope the farmers in the various communities indicated will take advantage of this opportunity and attend the meeting most convenient.

Dates and places of meetings are as follows:

Goldie Cole Adds Many to Her Long List of Admirers.

The Goldie Cole Stock Co., has been playing under the big tent all this week and the audiences have been large and demonstrative. Dainty Goldie Cole won all hearts, just as she has done everywhere else that she has played. The performance might be called continuous as there is excellent Vaudeville between every act which makes things interesting all through the evening. Doing away with long waits which is most satisfactory to the audience.

Mr. and Mrs. Thybault, were here Monday, from Graham county, before the probate court in a will case.

The United States Census Statistics

CONTAINS SOME INTERESTING FIGURES

These figures show that sixty-six, read it, (66) out of 100 people dying in the United States have absolutely no estate. They die penniless.

Of the remaining thirty-four (34) persons, twenty-five die with less than $1300, and only nine (9) persons in one hundred (100) have more than $5000 when they die.

The above figures are not estimates, idle guesses or fiction, they are the facts, arrived at by the U. S. Government in its Census reports.

The remedy is simple. Just save your money. We will be glad to have you open an account with us.

Hail Insurance

To Whom it May Concern:

We, the undersigned, heartily recommend J. M. Schaefer of Hays, Kansas, to all those intending to insure their growing wheat against Hail storms this season. Mr. Schaefer has demonstrated to us last season that the business entrusted to his care will be honestly looked after. The companies represented by him have treated their customers on the square in regard to adjustments and prompt payment of losses. In making this statement voluntary, we feel that we are not only giving credit where credit is due, but also in justice to our brother farmers who are looking for a safe place to do business.

Henry Gottschalk, " "	312	F. Schoendoller	"	1856
Carl Werth, " "	455	and 48 others.

MR. FARMER:

I submit the above statement for your consideration before placing your insurance this year. The Almanac predicts severe hail storms in 1916. Are you prepared? In 1915 we paid more than 50 claims for losses. The smallest was for $100; the largest for $2800, and not one dissatisfied customer. We have established a record for prompt payment of losses in 1915, why not place your business with us this year? Don't let the other fellow talk you into insuring with an irresponsible Company but see us NOW. What is worth doing at all is worth doing quickly.

Our Patrons are Our Best Recommendation

Yours for business,

J. M. SCHAEFER.

P. S.—We will write your Hail business at cash rates, without interest. Our losses will be adjusted again by our own men, payment being made in the field on day of adjustment. Does this sound right to you?

Coming—"The Christian"

The sensations of a self-made girl who suddenly finds herself feted and dined in the highest society should be a source of comfort to those who have never attained social success. MISS EDITH STOREY, who plays Glory Quayle in the big 8-reel production, "The Christian," which will be seen at the

NEW OPERA HOUSE Friday, June 9th, 1916

Got into society, and found it wasn't anything like she expected. The society was all in the play. Glory Quayle is taken up and made a social queen. She has her coaching parties and receptions. Miss Storey, who is a Texan and a common-sense sort of young person, did her society turn before the camera, and reported to her friends:

"Oh, yes, I was in society," she said. "I suppose we did it just as real society people would, but I want to assure you I'd rather be a cow girl than a society belle. Society is all right for those who enjoy it, but I was never content except when I felt sure that everyone was on his real behavior. Society, as I see it, is too much given over to humbugging your neighbor. Give me a real girl pal, or a clean-cut young fellow, and I'd rather go to a good show with either of them than to be the queen of the biggest ball in the world. Society will never turn my head, and I wish I could get down to brass tacks and argue the question with some young girls I know, who have the bee. There's only one kind of society worth having, and that's the kind founded on old friendship."
